

The Bosnian Pyramids

By Jimmie Holman with Paul Dorneanu

In early 2016, Pulsed Technologies released the overwhelmingly successful VitaSet Generator (VSG) to the public. A large portion of our latest research revolved around the fundamental relationships of Schuman Resonances and wellness, both physical and mental, but continues deep into the realms of self-healing and personal development. When it was revealed that Schumann Resonances were being measured deep within the subterranean passages and areas surrounding the Bosnian pyramids, our attention and interest was greatly raised. When various details of Dr. Sam Osmanagich's report of Schumann Resonances and other special detected frequencies began being independently verified by numerous investigators from a host of universities in many countries, we became EXCEPTIONALLY interested. At that point it was only speculated that ancient people had come there for health and a healing environment. Without their immediate knowledge, these were the details that matched up with our private research which could help validate their earlier speculations.

While I have personally been aware of the "hype" and speculation surrounding "pyramid power" over the decades, I never suspected I would have the opportunity to actually visit, tour, and explore under the guidance of such a passionate and experienced researcher as Dr. Osmanagich.

Invite to Bosnia

Knowing that an important part of this trip was to enter the underground labyrinth under these spectacular “structures”, arrangements were also made for Paul Dorneanu (the European-half of Pulsed Tech) to also attend. I frankly didn’t think my claustrophobia would be able to handle the confined spaces deep within what my mind could then only conceive of as an underground tomb ... mine!

The Trip

My journey began in Dallas where I traveled to Romania to be joined by Paul in Bucharest. From Bucharest, Romania we drove to Sarajevo, Bosnia-Herzegovina. The drive itself was incredibly beautiful and relatively uneventful except for a problematic “attempted” entering of Serbia¹ which was unavoidably along our route. Unfortunately, we had a drone for filming the pyramid with us. We might have just as well had an arsenal of stinger missiles with us because apparently drones are NOT ALLOWED! Returning the drone to Romania, our trip proceeded nicely to arrive in Bosnia’s capital very late that evening.

Our dear associate, Dr. Salah Al-Rashed of our affiliate, HER Technologies of Kuwait, and staff were there to welcome us. After a good night’s rest, an incredible Bosnian coffee, and breakfast, we were greeted and ferried off to the beautiful and enchanting Visoko, not too far north of Sarajevo, by the discover and primary researcher himself, Dr. Sam Osmanagich.

Dr. Sam was an incredible host and quite the character. Some might say he’s a cross between Indiana Jones and Crocodile Dundee, but more gentlemanly. He has an incredibly detailed knowledge and generous sharing nature that make for an enlightening and very enjoyable experience.

¹ Serbia is also an incredibly beautiful country. It’s capital, Belgrade is also home to the home of the Nikola Tesla Museum, (Музеј Николе Тесле, Muzej Nikole Tesle), and the remains of the man himself, a place each of our engineers has traveled to as a tribute but for illumination and inspiration as well. Tesla’s work and discoveries are some of the most important foundational elements and concepts incorporated in Pulsed Technologies Research designs.

Dr. Osmanagich

Dr. Sam (Samir) Osmanagich was a delightful host. As the official “discoverer” of the Bosnian Pyramid complex, I doubt we could have had a better or more enthusiastic personal guide to the intricacies of the land and the earth below. As a renowned expert on pyramids, Dr. Sam has also extensively investigated the ancient pyramid structures throughout China, Mauritius, Canary Islands, Egypt, Peru, El Salvador, Guatemala, Bolivia, Honduras, Mexico to name a few.

Necessarily skeptical by nature, and to better understand what we might find, we did our homework ahead of the trip. In a similar manner to how I prepare for any project, I devoured every bit of info and video I could locate. This included many pros and cons, validations, and what was eventually identified as outright debunking. (More later.)

As we began putting the many puzzle pieces together it became obvious that many of the debunking claims clearly came from those who had never been there or experienced the site in context. This really is one of those places a person needs to experience themselves to get the fuller view of reality.

From Pyramids Around the World & Lost Pyramids of Bosnia

Dr. Sam Osmanagich has authored 12 books about ancient civilizations and narrated a 12-episode documentary “Search for Lost Civilizations” for the state Bosnian television FTVBiH (2007). This documentary was based on his book, Civilizations Before the Official History (2005), and filmed in Peru, Bolivia, Easter Island, Costa Rica, Mexico, United Kingdom, France, Germany, Malta, Egypt, Jordan and Lebanon.

In 2005, Dr. Sam discovered the first pyramids in Europe near the town of Visoko, Bosnia-Herzegovina. In 2008, Dr. Osmanagich hosted an archaeological conference in Sarajevo which fueled controversy about his discovery dividing the archeological community. Excavation on the vast complex has been ongoing and run by his non-profit “Archaeological park: Bosnia Pyramid of the Sun” foundation since 2006 compiling more and more evidence to validate his claims. To date the excavation has yielded 5 pyramids of various sizes as well as a vast labyrinth of underground tunnels and a pyramid that is 30% larger than the largest structures on the Giza Plateau. Dr. Osmanagich is a principal investigator in this project which yielded some of the pioneering electromagnetic measurements in the pyramids.

He has become world renowned expert on pyramids by investigating these structures in China, Mauritius, Canary Islands, Egypt, Peru, El Salvador, Guatemala, Bolivia, Honduras, Mexico and other countries.

Osmanagich was admitted as a Foreign Member of the Russian Academy of Natural Sciences of Moscow, one of the most respected scientific institutions in the world. Osmanagich holds a PhD in Mayan studies. He is a member of the Archeological Society of Alexandria and became the first honorary citizen of the town of Visoko and professor at the American University in Bosnia-Herzegovina. He’s Director of the Center for Archaeology at the American University.

Politics & Perception

It seems there are similar politics for archeology and history as there are for medicine and health.

Those in control write the rules, control the history, perception, and the masses.

Examining any situation from a skeptical point of view, in my opinion, is the very best way to analyze most claims. Researching and doing due diligence ahead of the trip, especially examining the skeptics point of view seemed logical. However, careful observation and listening to the “Bosnian viewpoint” also allowed us to get a perspective that I could not have expected.

Upon our initial visit to the site, one thing became clear almost immediately. As previously mentioned, much of what I had previously read criticizing the work, findings, and theories surrounding the activities at the pyramids were obviously done by individuals who had never seen, experienced, visited the site, or otherwise possibly had some sort of alternative agenda.

Having ourselves visited other unexplained ancient archeological sites such as the relatively near-by Sarmizegetusa Regia in the Orăstie Mountains of present-day western Romania, I have questioned more and more the history I was taught in school. It has become clearer with discovery after discovery, ancient man across the globe had incredible knowledge evident in the remnants and ruins left behind. We should be asking, “WHAT was this knowledge? HOW was it used? WHY was it lost or suppressed?” so that we may one day be better able to understand or re-develop it once again.

In the alternative and integrative health-related research both Paul and I have conducted over the last two decades, we often encounter evidence of miraculous cures or treatments that have all but been erased or otherwise suppressed from public knowledge. Upon investigating in greater depth, we often found, what appeared to be, professional debunkers often working on behalf of the very entities (aka: pharmaceutical companies) that would stand the most to lose should widespread knowledge of such treatment or technology become commonplace. The professional and regulatory agencies effectively help maintain this accepted pattern of abuse. While some may believe this control and manipulation falls into the realm of conspiracy, detailed government studies have clearly identified the overwhelming depth and existence of this control on a global scale.²

We now realize archeology experiences much the same problems, issues, and pressures as we have witnessed in the alternative health related fields.

Just as a miracle cure of the healing art could change the business of medicine forever, a well-documented discovery that disproves past accepted theories and assumptions could cause the current narrative of history to be rewritten, and the current and past authority figures discredited. Similarly, each alternative discovery and truth, if well publicized and publicly accepted, has the potential to upset the power of those “authorities” that control and manipulate that narrative. I recognized and commend the “up-hill” battle that Dr. Osmanagich must fight daily, and have the upmost respect for his tireless efforts.

The Tunnel Ravne Experience

The authenticity of the experiences and claims of the discoveries made at the Bosnian pyramids are something that must ultimately be left to the experiencers themselves. Pictures and articles simply don't do justice to the collective details one can experience there. When all the anomalies are placed in context with one another, this truly becomes a very remarkable place.

Engraved artifacts were found with runic symbols similar to the ancient writings of Hungary and France which also later appeared in Great Britain some 2000 years ago. Professor Bobbie Scarfe, utilizing Ralph H. Blum's work on Rune Stones, translated the glyphs: *"The Gateway is closed, we are at a standstill. We will have to act as warriors to defend and conquer until we can move again through the stargate."*³

Here, at the base/foundation of the Pyramid of the Sun, Dr. Sam takes time to personally visit with guests, answer questions, and explain the details and nuances that likely would be missed if not pointed out.

The Underground Labyrinth “Tunnel Ravne”

Our “assistant-guide” Sonny (the dog) always seemed quite eager and content to recline on the ancient monolithic (ceramic) structures seemingly strategically placed throughout the Tunnel Ravne system. One thing that was quite notable was that these structures referred to as the “constructed” ceramic monoliths bare absolutely no resemblance to any natural material I saw within the tunnels, the hills, or even the area of Bosnia. The objects truly did seem to be some sort of intelligently constructed design.

Relaxation and meditation in this environment can be incredible because modern environmental electropollution does not penetrate underground. The atmosphere was so relaxing and euphoric, my claustrophobia I thought would arise, never did. It was truly an amazing experience being within this astounding environment.

Schumann Resonance

The primary reason for our “expedition” to the Bosnian Pyramids was to further investigate the presence of Schumann Resonance at the pyramid and to speak on the similarity of the phenomena to some of Pulsed Technologies’ recent research.

Over the last few years, we have been extensively researching the biological effects and mechanism on health and general well-being associated with Schumann Resonance. Although well documented in both scientific and even medical literature, most allopathic practitioners remain ignorant of the science and phenomena involved. The reasons for this ignorance was outlined in the previous section “Politics & Perception” heading and a brief overview of the science will be outlined within the next few pages.

It has been speculated that the pyramid complex had been utilized as a “healing place”. With all that has been found, it made perfectly good sense. This could easily have been used as a place of natural healing and regeneration. The collective evidence was leading to the presumption that even if the discoverers did not fully understand the biological mechanisms and relationships they undoubtedly recognized the effects.

High Negative Ion Level

Typically, negative ions = less pollution = better health

“An abundance of negative ions in the air interacts with human biochemistry reducing the level of serotonin in the blood. Serotonin is produced in stressful situations as part of the fight-or flight response of the sympathetic nervous system. In brief doses it activates us, but prolonged high concentrations of serotonin weaken us and make our minds less stable. An abundance of negative air ions reduces fatigue, invigorates us, and improves the protective powers of the mucous membranes of the respiratory system, making us less susceptible to colds and infections.”⁴

⁴ Sacred Places: How the Living Earth Seeks Our Friendship, James Swan

Oxygen Level High – Low CO₂

Normally, subterranean caves and tunnels have reduced Oxygen levels and elevated Carbon Dioxide. CO₂ greater than 1% concentration in caves typically corresponds to a depletion in O₂ levels. Carbon Dioxide is the body's regulator of the breathing function. Levels above .03% cause accelerated breathing and heartrate. Higher concentrations can cause paralysis or even death. The Oxygen level within the Tunnel Ravne complex beneath the Bosnian Pyramids remains unexpectedly high. In fact, exceptionally high, as it is reported to remain fairly constant at 20% without any need of ventilation. How this phenomenon occurs is still unknown!

Dr. Osmanagich elaborates on the unusual environment and characteristics found within the subterranean tunnels.

Water

The available water freely flowing from numerous springs in the immediate area is exceptional. The water is mineral rich, bacteria free, and certified perfectly safe for human consumption directly as it flows from the land.

These things combined made for an environment that one comes away from FEELING GREAT!

The Science

While Rife and resonant frequency technologies have been our professional interest and endeavors over the last two decades, our technical research into Schuman resonance, today's electropollution, and their positive and negative effects on human physiology made this an exciting "new" area of exploration.

While we may never be able to fully explain how the ancient people understood, constructed, and used this complex, there is left little doubt in our view that its creators had intentional purposes for an extravagant project of this magnitude.

VSG TECHNOLOGY

In association with our research for the VitaSet Generator, Pulsed Technologies Research has been examining the relationships between the earth's natural Schumann resonances, brainwave states, and the dramatic biological effects on both mental and physical health.

The close relationship and similarity between the earth's Schumann Resonances and human brainwave states were quickly recognized as being almost identical. This has been known for decades although we are only recently learning the depth of these profound relationships. The Schumann Resonances, while often thought of as "The Earth's Pulse", it appears to also play an important role in the cyclic processes of almost every living thing which evolved on earth.

Most of modern industrialized civilization now have electropollution to the extent it is blinding us from access to these natural signals. Fortunately, there still are structures where these restorative and biologically important cues are still accessible to those who seek it out.

Jimmie Holman describes the phenomena, effects and relationships of health, the instruments and the signals of the Bosnian Pyramids

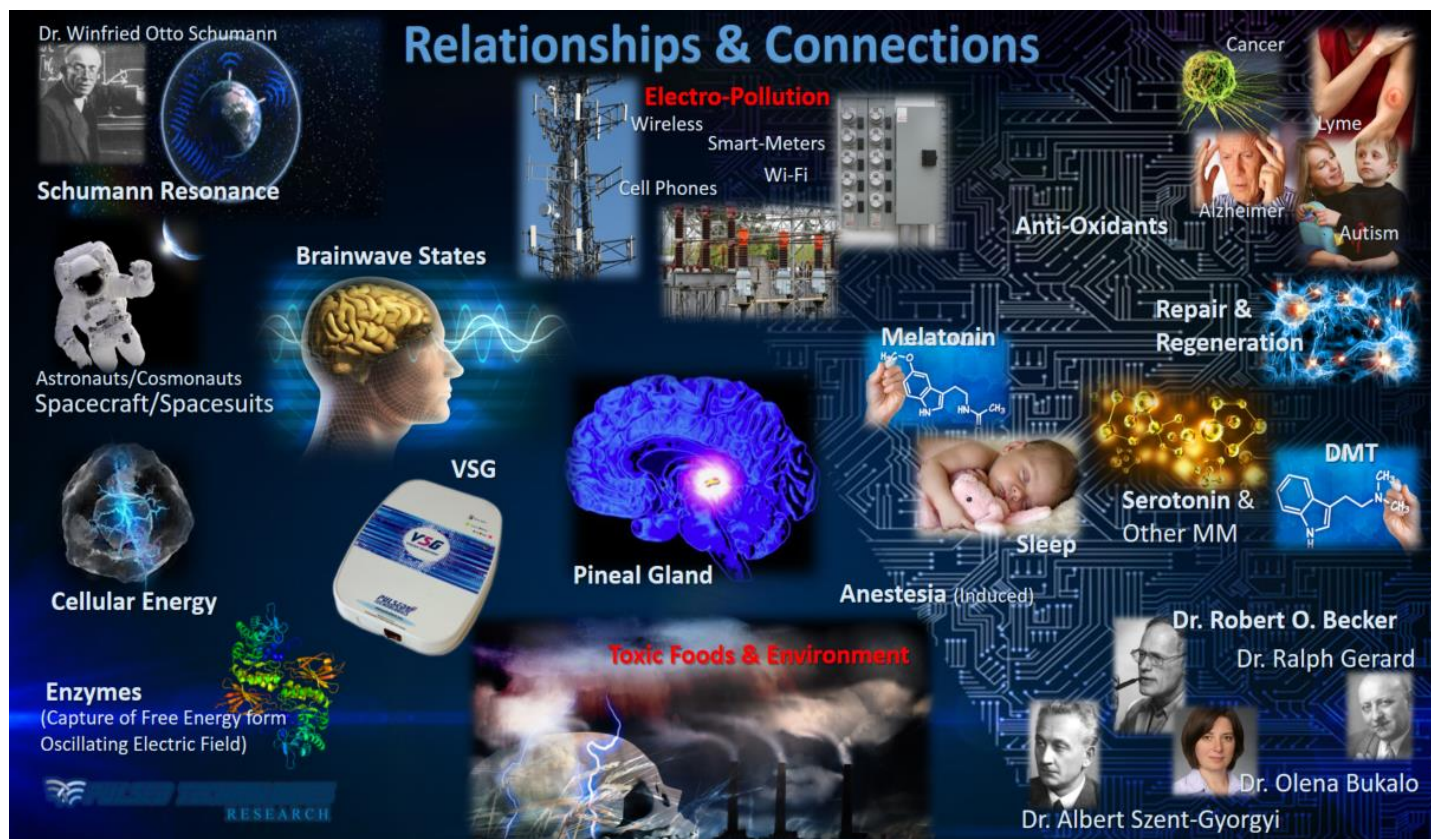

The conference participants received their own VSG and personalized training

Only in the last few years are these relationships being recognized and correlated. The environmental cues of Schumann have profound importance in helping not only power the cells but also relate to cyclic functions and chemistry that occur within the brain each night helping orchestrate the repairs, regeneration, and healing each of us needs for true health and well-being.

While Schumann Resonance is reportedly found with the pyramids, the electromagnetic assaults of our modern environment are noticeably absent. When one considers the combined elements of presence of Schumann, high negative ion availability, excellent oxygen, availability of pure clean water in this environment, the labyrinth of the Bosnian Pyramids becomes an understandably excellent retreat for restorative physical and mental health.

Note: More details of these relationships can be found in Electro-Pollution and Earth Resonance⁵ and Understanding & surviving In Today's Toxic, Electro-Polluted Environment⁶

Closing

In today's uncertain world, Bosnia is an incredible safe place to travel and visit. Although there are scars from its recent conflict-torn past, the beauty and magic of this modern and very affordable retreat is well worth the visit and leisurely stay.

I encourage anyone interested to go there to see for yourself and experience this enchanting place. The personal experience cannot be related in words alone. Most likely you will emerge a bit more, rested, recharged, and more importantly

ENLIGHTENED!

For those who would like to know more about this amazing place, I recommend the book by the authority himself, Dr. Sam Osmanagich.

For those who would like to know more about the VSG (VitaSet Generator) I would encourage visiting the Pulsed Technologies, Pulsed Technologies Research, and HER (our mid-east affiliate) websites
